ORGANIZATION

OF THE

Military of Allegheny County.

On the 11th of April, 1861, the Secession movements in the South—already endorsed by Legislative action in Several States—culminated in a demand by General Beauregard, commander of the rebel troops, for a surrender of Fort Sumter, in the harbor of Charleston. The refusal of Major Anderson to surrender was followed, on the 12th inst., by an assault on the fort, which, after a two days' bombardment, was capitulated, and the United States garrison, comprising less than ninety men, left the fort on the 14th inst. with the honors of war, saluting their flag. No loss of life had occurred during the bombardment, but by the bursting of a gun in firing the salute two men were killed and four wounded.

The most intense excitement throughout the North followed the announcement of the attack on Fort Sumter, and on the 15th of April the President issued a proclamation calling upon the States to furnish 75,000 militia, to suppress the rebellion, and summoning an extra session of Congress on the 4th of July following. The quota of Pennsylvania, under this call for troops, was fixed at sixteen regiments, and the command of the Western Division of the State assigned to Brigadier-General Negley, for the purpose of organizing the troops.

The call for volunteers found Allegheny County, like all other parts of the State, almost unprovided with military organizations. There were in the two cities ten volunteer companies—the Jackson Independent Blues, Duquesne Greys, Washington Infantry, Allegheny Rifles, Pennsylvania Dragoons, Pittsburgh Turner Rifles, Lafayette Blues, Pennsylvania Zouaves, National Guards and United States Zouave Cadets—several of which had been organized during the military furore following the visit of the Chicago Zouaves, in 1860. In the county there were also a few volunteer organizations—the Pennsylvania Infantry, at East Liberty, Alliquippa Guards, M'Keesport, Turtle Creek Guards, Turtle Creek, two companies in Birmingham, St. Clair Guards, Union Artillery, National Lancers, and one or two others.

The greatest enthusiasm followed the announcement of the call for volunteers. Scores of companies were set on foot and tendered their services to the Governor. On the 15th instant recruiting began throughout the county, and on the 17th, the first detachment of Turner Rifles, eighty men, under Captain Amlung, left for Harrisburg. The remainder of the company, which was organized from the German Turner Association, left on the following day. On the same day, the Hannibal Guards, a company of colored men, also tendered their services. On the 18th, Trovillo's Invincibles, Robinson' Light Guards, M'Dowell's State Guards, and Gerard's Pennsylvania Zouaves, left for Harrisburg, followed, on the 20th, by a "second detachment," and Rippey's Scott Legion, Gallagher's Shields Guards, and Alliquippa Guards, of M'Keesport. On the 22d, the first regiment was organized in Allegheny County by General Negley :

The Negley Zouaves, Capt. O. M. Irvine, were assigned to the 3d Regiment, of which Capt. Irvine was chosen Major; 1st Lieut. Lawson succeeding to the Captaincy.

The Alliquippa Guards, Capt. Snider, were attached to the 14th Regiment, Col. John W. Johnston.

While these companies were recruiting, the community was in a constant whirl of excitement. Public buildings, stores, and even private houses were profusely decorated with flags of all sizes and qualities. Private subscriptions for the benefit of individuals and companies were raised liberally—amounting in the aggregate to thousands of dollars. Revolvers, swords, bowie knives, sashes, and other weapons and military decorations were presented by hundreds, individuals, companies, and corporations vying with each other in liberality. By the efforts of a few individuals, in some instances, whole companies were uniformed; but we regret to say, the materials and make, in some cases, soon proved to be of the shabbiest character. Thus several companies of the three months volunteers were twice supplied with clothing within a few weeks; once before leaving home, and again by the State, with “shoddy” suits, and both of such miserable materials as to fall to pieces before the campaign had fairly commenced, causing much needless suffering among the raw recruits.

During this period of excitement, the ladies took their full share of labor, sewing gratuitously for the soldiers, making lint and hospital supplies, and providing such delicacies as their means permitted. Hundreds of havelocks were made, but the discovery that the white colored stuff of which they were made had an injurious effect on the eyes of the rear rank men, put a sudden stop to the manufacture. Private subscriptions were raised to provide means both for the outfitting of the volunteers and for the defence of the city. Messrs. Knapp, Rudd & Co., of the Fort Pitt works, generously tendering the heavy ordnance for the purpose.

Departure of Allegheny County Troops.

On the 24th of April—eleven days after the President called for 75,000 men—the last detachment (excepting two companies) of the 12th and 13th Regiments, left for Harrisburg. At an early hour in the day the troops mustered and repaired to the East Common, Allegheny, where a grand review had been announced to come off. A slight rain had been falling, which increased to a heavy shower as the review was about commencing, and continued without intermission, interfering greatly with the Commanding General's arrangement for a grand demonstration. The review did not come off, the soldiers instead plodding their way, through the muddy streets and torrents of rain, to the railroad depot, which they reached in dilapidated plight, the column marching through Western avenue, Ohio and Federal streets to the river, across the Suspension bridge, up St. Clair and Fifth streets to Smithfield, thence to Sixth and down to Liberty, where three trains, consisting of thirty-three cars, were in waiting to transport them to the State Capital. On the route a beautiful silk flag was presented to the 12th Regiment by the ladies of Allegheny, and received by Capt. R. Biddle Roberts, of the U. S. Zouave Cadets. This demonstration took place at the house of Wm. Bagaley, Esq., on Western Avenue.

Before the troops reached the trains, the arrangements for supplying a comfortable lunch were perfected. A day's rations of bread and meat had been placed on each man's seat, and his tin cup filled with excellent coffee, most gladly welcomed by the soldiers after their trudge through mud and rain. In Kier's warehouse, near the depot, a table was bountifully supplied, and but few failed "to pay their respects" to it. Credit for this timely supply of comfort for the inner man is due mainly to the citizens who subsequently organized the Subsistence Committee, of which we will hereafter speak.

About twelve o'clock, m., the first (and largest) train moved off amid the most enthusiastic demonstrations, waving of handkerchiefs from the windows and housetops, and deafening cheers from the spectators, all cheerfully responded to by the men in the cars. At least ten thousand people had collected to wave farewell to the "gallant three monthsers." The smaller trains followed the first at brief intervals, and the crowd was not cleared off until long after the first car was out of sight.

The first train arrived at Huntingdon at half-past six p. m., and simultaneous with its arrival the soldiers were besieged by citizens bearing baskets of boiled eggs, sandwiches, crackers, cheese, hot coffee, &c. The second and third trains stopped at Altoona, and the men were there fed at the expense of the Government.

The trains arrived at Harrisburg between one and two o'clock on the morning of the 25th, and the men were quartered in churches and in the capitol. On the afternoon of the same day the regiments were mustered into the service of the United States, on the square fronting the State Capitol, on each side of which the 12th and 13th regiments were formed in line. After the ceremony, Gov. Curtin passed in review.

Col. Campbell's regiment, the 12th, left the same evening for "Camp Scott," at York, and Col. Rowley's left on the following day for the same destination.

At Camp Scott,

of which Brig. Gen. Wynkoop was in command, were the 1st, 2d, 3d, 12th, 13th and 16th Regiments, numbering in all about 5,000 men. Beside the Allegheny county companies in the 12th and 13th, another company, the Negley Zouaves, were in the 3d. The men suffered much for the want of sufficient clothing, which was not furnished for some time after their arrival at York.

On the 29th of April Gen. Negley issued his first General Order, assuming command of the 12th and 13th regiments, Capt. Leasure, of Lawrence county, acting as Adjutant General.

Major General Keim, with his aid, Col. Schaffer, of Lancaster, arrived at York on May 6th, and assumed control of affairs. Two days after, Captain Ekin, quartermaster of the 12th, left Philadelphia, with requisitions for clothing and accoutrements for all the troops in camp Scott. He returned on the 12th, having been successful in his mission.

At this time, the bridges on the Northern Central Railroad, (destroyed by the rebels,) had been rebuilt, and trains began running regularly from Harrisburg to Baltimore, a special train going through on the 9th.

Gen. Negley, by direction of Maj. Gen. Keim, had added to his brigade (the Fourth,) the 14th and 15th Regiments, in camp at Lancaster. The Alliquippa Guards, Capt. Snyder, of McKeesport, were Co. K, in the 14th.

The subject of re-enlisting for three years or the war was now agitated, and excited considerable discussion. The question was not put to the men, and the reports that they refused to re-enlist are false. Being half a month in the service without equipments, when other regiments subsequently organized were already in the field, abundantly supplied with everything, the men of the 12th and 13th, were in no amiable mood. On the 3d of May, Governor Curtin was advised that there were three very fine regiments in Philadelphia ready to go into service, and was urged to accept them. They were accepted and at once equipped and sent off. When Capt. Ekin visited Philadelphia, he was informed that the 12th and 13th regiments were in excess, and that unless they enlisted for three years they would be sent home. The acceptance of the Philadelphia regiments had more than filled the State's quota of three months men, and hence the 12th and 13th, although fully organized in less than two weeks after the call for troops, were to be crowded out. But, through the active exertions of one of our Representatives in Congress, Hon. J. K. Moorhead, the Secretary of War set all things straight. Who was to blame for this trouble we cannot say, but it seems, through somebody's inadvertance or neglect, that the War Department had not been advised of the organization of the Allegheny county regiments.

On the 10th of May, (Sunday,) Gov. Curtin, with his Aid, Col. R. Bidle Roberts, reviewed the troops at York. Brig. Gens. Negley and Wynkoop appeared with their brigades.

The first instalment of overcoats and accoutrements reached York on the 19th, another on the following day, and from day to day until all the troops in Camp Scott were fully clothed, equipped and furnished with Camp equipage. The inferiority and absolutely rottenness of the clothing excited much comment and not a little indignation.

About this time Gen. Negley left York for Lancaster, to see after the interests of the 14th and 15th Regiments. His separation from the 12th and 13th Regiments, it was at first supposed, would be but temporary, but turned out that they were taken out of his command entirely, as he exercised no control over them from the time of his leaving York, and during the remainder of the campaign he had but one company from Allegheny county under his command—the Alliquippa Guards. This was much against his wishes, as well as against the desire, we believe, of a majority of the Allegheny volunteers.

On the 25th—having remained at Camp Scott exactly one month—the 12th Regiment received marching orders and was stationed along the Northern Central Railroad, guarding it from the destructive intentions of the rebels. The regiment remained there until the expiration of their term of service.

On the 3d of June, the 13th received marching orders, and on the following day left Camp Scott for Chambersburg, at which place it arrived on the morning of the 7th, and went into "Cantonment Rowley," west of the town, in the Fair Grounds, where it remained a few days, removing thence, on the 12th, four miles South, to "Camp Brady." Here the regiment was placed in the brigade of Col. Dixon S. Miles, U. S. A., composed of the 9th and 16th P. V., and detachments of the 2d and 3d Infantry, (regulars.) The 15th found the regiment at "Camp Riley," in Md., a mile and a half from the Potomac, and on the following day it was at "Camp Hitchcock," in Berkeley County, Va., two miles South of the Potomac, which river it crossed, with Gen. Patterson's army, at Williamsport.

Before daylight on the 17th, the regiment, with the brigade to which it was attached, retreated across the Potomac to Williamsport, and took up quarters at "Camp Miles," adjoining the town. Here Col. Miles and his regulars were detached and left for Washington City. The regiment remained at this point, spending the time most agreeably, until the 4th of July.

At the Ledger office, in Williamsport, some of the 13th boys printed a newspaper, entitled, "THE PENNSYLVANIA THIRTEENTH," dated "Camp Miles, July 4th, 1861."

M. Swartzwelder, Esq., having paid the camp a visit, witnessed the spectacle of a company parading in drawers, a supply of which they had just received. He was convinced, after examining a few of the pantaloons worn by the soldiers, that it was not the warmth of the weather that induced them (the men) to come out in clean drawers in the presence of spectators, rather than in pants which would not cover their nakedness.

As an evidence of the feeling concerning the "shoddy" clothing, the "local" of the "Thirteen" thus dilated:

"We advertise for sale a choice lot of rags, (material unknown) formerly put together as soldiers' clothing. If Mr. Neil, of Philadelphia, wishes to assist in a speculation, he will find his services appreciated by applying to the 13th Regiment."

On the day of the publication of the paper, and while Sergt. Maj. Calow was working the press, without positive orders the 13th crossed the Potomac the third time. Being short of rations, and directed not to move until his commissary department had been replenished, Col. Rowley formed the regiment in line on the bank of the river, and put the question to the men whether they would be content to live for five days on three day's rations. An affirmative reply was given, and five minutes later the regiment filed into the Potomac, while Doubleday's guns were belching forth salutes in honor of the day. Arrived in Martinsburg on the same day, (the second after the fight at Falling Waters,) and remained there until the 15th, when Patterson's army moved to Bunker Hill, twelve miles distant from Winchester. Here it rested in quietude, barring the nightly alarms, (caused by timorous picket guards) until the 18th, when the army moved, NOT to Winchester, as was generally expected, but to Charleston, in the direction of Harper's Ferry. Remaining at Charleston for a few days, the line of march was taken up for the Ferry, where the Potomac was crossed a fourth time. Encamping for a night opposite Maryland Heights, the regiment headed for Hagerstown, marching some twenty-two miles in nine hours. The men knew they were going home, their term of service having expired. At Hagerstown they took the cars for Chambersburg, thence to Harrisburg, arriving in Pittsburg on the 29th of July. They were regularly mustered out and paid off a few days afterward. So ends a brief history of the bloodless campaign of the three months men.

The 13th regiment, together with the companies in the 3d, 7th and 14th, saw quite as much service as any of the three months troops attached to Gen. Patterson's division, while the 12th regiment did most efficient service in performing the duty to which it was assigned.

The companies in the 5th remained about Washington City, and were among the very first troops which arrived to defend the National Capital.

The 7th regiment went from Harrisburg to Camp Slifer, near Chambersburg, and was assigned to the Brigade of Gen. Williams. It crossed the Potomac with Patterson's army, and continued with it in the marches from Williamsport to Harper's Ferry, whence the three months men were all sent home.

While at Charleston, the battle of Bull Run took place, and on the day previous the 13th was ordered to proceed some twenty miles in the direction of Winchester to burn some bridges and tear up railroad tracks, and had started on their mission. The order, however, was countermanded, while Capt. M. K. Moorhead, the Quartermaster, was endeavoring to procure the necessary tools.

The Alliquippa Guards, of McKeesport, Capt. Christian Snyder and Lieut.'s F. Shaum and George Haast,—attached to the 14th Regiment, Col. J. W. Johnston, of Westmoreland, remained at Lancaster for a considerable time, going thence to Chambersburg and participating in the campaign through the Cumberland Valley and Virginia. On the 14th of July, at Camp Negley, near Hagerstown, Md., the officers of the Guards resigned, because, as they stated, no provisions were furnished their men. The resignations were accepted by Gen. Negley, who appointed other officers, viz: Capt. Jas. A. Lowrie, and 1st Lieut. Alexander Forsyth, both of whom were on the General's staff, and the latter afterwards assigned as Quartermaster of the 14th Regiment, with James H. Snodgrass, as assistant.

The Negley Zouaves, of East Liberty, Capt. Lawson, also actively participated in the three months campaign, doing guard duty on the railroad at Hagerstown for a short time.

THE COMMITTEE OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Pending the organization of the volunteer militia of the county, active exertions were making in the community in the furtherance of the county's cause. One of the most important bodies ever organized in the country was set on foot, and for months afterwards exercised a controlling influence in all military affairs in the county. The duties of the Committee of Public Safety were multifarious and laborious, yet they were attended to with a vigilance and promptitude that will forever reflect credit on the members. On the 15th of April an immense mass meeting was held in City Hall. Never before had so many persons gathered within its walls—never had the same unanimity of sentiment been displayed. This meeting adopted a series of resolutions pertinent to the crisis, the fourth of which authorized the appointment of a Committee of One Hundred, to act in all matters pertaining to the "patriot cause." This committee, which was announced by the venerable chairman of the meeting, Judge Wilkins, on the 17th, was composed of prominent citizens of all parties, and temporarily organized by electing Thomas Bakewell, Esq., President; John Birmingham, W. Bagaley, Hon. Thomas M. Howe, Wm. F. Johnston, C. Zug and G. W. Cass, Vice Presidents; and T. Steel, C. McKnight, T. J. Bigham and T. B. Hamilton, Secretaries.

A committee appointed on permanent organization, at a meeting on the 18th, reported the following permanent officers: Hon. William Wilkins, President; Hon. Thomas M. Howe, Hon. William F. Johnston, William Bagaley, James P. Barr, John Birmingham and George W. Cass, Vice Presidents; Messrs. William M. Hersh, John W. Riddell, George H. Thurston, Wm. Woods, Jos. R. Hunter and Thos. D. Hamilton, Secretaries and Jas. M'Auley, Treasurer. The committee also reported the propriety of creating three sub-committees, viz: Finance, Home Defence, and Executive Committees, the organization of which, for obvious reasons, was not made public. The committees at once entered upon their duties in collecting funds and organizing the residents of the county into companies and regiments of Home Guards. The duties of the Executive Committee were of an extremely delicate character. At the outbreaking of the rebellion, there were in every community in the North numbers of residents who sympathized, more or less openly, with the rebels, and continued to supply them, for some time, with articles contraband of war. These articles were forwarded by railroad and express to points in the West, from which they could readily be distributed to the South. It became the duty of the committee to intercept these contraband shipments, and to put a stop, as quietly as possible, to the public expression of disloyal sentiments. For some weeks their labors were arduous, but finally resulted in a complete suppression of the illegal traffic. Hon. Wm. F. Johnston, Hon. Thos. Howe, Hon. Wm. Wilkins, Hon. John E. Parke, George W. Cass, George P. Hamilton, Thomas S. Blair, James H. Sewell, James Park, jr., James M'Auley, James B. Murray, William M. Lyon, Thomas Steel, William R. Brown, James Herdman, J. R. M'Cune, C. W. Batchelor, Wm. M. Shinn, William Phillips, Thomas Bakewell, James A. Hutchinson, H. M'Cullough, Reuben Miller, jr., Edward Gregg, Samuel Dilworth, William J. Morrison, Isaac Jones, M. Swartzwelder, William Coleman, Dr. George M'Cook, sr., P. C. Shannon, and Edward H. Stowe, formed this committee, of which William F. Johnston was elected chairman, and Thomas M. Howe Vice President, Geo. H. Thurston, Secretary of the Committee of Public Safety and J. A. Hutchinson, were appointed secretaries. Mr. Thurston, from his wide acquaintance in the community and his experience in business of a kindred nature, was enabled to be of great service to the committee in the transaction of its business.

At a mass meeting of citizens held some time after the formation of the committee, another committee was appointed to confer with the Executive Committee, being subsequently consolidated with it. It was composed of Messrs. B. C. Sawyer, A. C. Alexander, James M. Cooper, Wm. Robinson, jr., Wm. K. Nimick, John Harper, Robert Ashworth, Francis Sellers, F. R. Brunot, B. F. Jones, T. J. Bigham, John Myler, Wm. Semple, Jas. P. Tanner, Saml. Wickersham and James French. The original committee was in constant session for several weeks, day and night. The joint committee was chiefly engaged with business relative to the defence of the city. The last meeting of the committee was held on Sept. 16th, 1861, there being no emergency from that date until September, 1862, which required their attention.

The Executive Committee, or rather, the Committee on Munitions of War, Messrs. Jos. Dilworth, Geo. M'Cook, E. D. Gazzam, Jonas R. McClintock, and Robert Finney, on the 25th of April published a notice to shippers, to report all goods supposed to be contraband to the committee, sitting in permanent session. The Committee on the Transit of Contraband Goods—Messrs. George McCook, M. D., Henry Hays, E. D. Gazzam, Jonas R. McClintock and W. E. Fundenburg,—on the 28th, passed the following resolutions:

“Resolved, That all goods arriving at Pittsburg, and destined for Southern States, be stopped for the present, stored and insured.

“Resolved, That no packages whatever shall be allowed to go forward to Southern States till they have been opened and examined by the Committee.

“Resolved, That one or more packers be employed to attend to the opening of boxes and other packages and repacking the same.”

The Committee still exercised a supervision over shipments during the summer. On the 28th of August, while the Collector of Customs was examining an Express car load of goods and munitions of war, a box of “friction tubes,” used in firing army ordnance, exploded. Mr. James Batchelor, a brother of Captain Chas. W. Batchelor, Collector of Customs, who was standing beside the car, had his leg broken by a splinter. Wm. McLaughlin, Expressman, John Maher, stableman, and Michael Regan, laborer, were at work in the car. McLaughlin was frightfully lacerated about the face and stomach, and one of his eyes badly injured. Maher was also terribly injured, his right side being lacerated, his left knee laid open to the bone, and his right arm, wrist and hand torn and mangled. All fortunately recovered. The cause of the explosion could never be clearly ascertained, as the tubes are packed with extreme care.

The Home Guards.

Under the auspices of the Committee on Home Defence, preliminary meetings were held in nearly all the wards of the two cities, on the 20th of April, for the purpose of organizing a militia for home defence, and during the fortnight following, organizations were perfected in almost every precinct in the county. Some of the companies adopted a cheap uniform, others merely assumed a military cap, while a large number sought no uniformity of dress or equipment. About the 1st of May, the Committee were authorized by the State authorities to draw from the arsenal muskets and rifles for the Home Guards. The arms were accordingly furnished by Maj. Synington, and, together with a large number purchased by the Committee, stored in City Hall, which was placed under a strong guard for several weeks. Prior to the departure of the last detachments of volunteers, 1139 muskets and rifles were also distributed among them by the Committee. As the companies of Home Guards were organized, they were reported to the Committee, inspected and sworn, and on the 3d of May the distribution of arms commenced, companies of riflemen receiving fifty rifles, and infantry companies seventy muskets. The muskets were generally old "Harper's Ferry" flint locks, but answered admirably all the purposes of drill. The rifles were of the old pattern, without bayonets, but in other respects first-rate arms. Forty-five companies were inspected on the first day, of which twenty were supplied with arms. In the course of the ensuing fortnight, all the companies organized were armed and under competent officers were being actively drilled. On Friday, May 11th, the last company—the Allegheny Grenadiers, Capt. Wray—were supplied with arms. The committee then reported a distribution of 2088 muskets and 882 rifles. Five thousand five hundred men were organized into Home Guard companies. Before distributing the arms, the committee required bonds from the officers of the several companies. The organization, as might have been expected, was made the target of not a little idle and malicious wit, and finally succumbed to ridicule and loss of novelty. Nevertheless, it had served a good purpose in thoroughly arousing the military spirit of the people, and its beneficial effects became apparent in recruiting under the subsequent call for five hundred thousand men. The immense body, thus enrolled and partially drilled, made but one exhibition of its strength—in the grand parade of July 4th. It had in the meantime been organized into regiments and brigades, of which we have the following record:

THE RESERVE CORPS.

In the excitement which followed the call for seventy-five thousand militia, a sufficient number of organizations were set on foot to have furnished that number from Pennsylvania alone. Notwithstanding the fact that the State quota was filled in less than a week, these organizations—to the number of over forty in Allegheny county alone—still held together, though in many instances at great inconvenience to the men and cost to the officers. Strenuous efforts were made to induce the State authorities to accept these companies, and on the 27th of April the Governor decided to form a Camp at Pittsburgh. The temporary control of the camp was placed in the hands of one of the sub-committees of the Committee of Public Safety. The Fair Grounds were selected as a suitable site, and Camp Wilkins organized with Col. P. Jarrett, of Lock Haven, Clinton county, Pa., as commandant, Henry A. Weaver, Commissary, and Sam'l. P. McKelvy, Quartermaster. Twenty-six companies were immediately reported as ready to go into camp, of which we have the following list:

Great disappointment was created by the announcement, on Tuesday, that but six Allegheny county companies could be accepted and provided for in Camp Wilkins. An impromptu meeting of Captains was held in the Girard House, at which forty five companies were represented. A meeting was held on the following day, at which a resolution to disband was discussed and rejected, and a regimental organization determined on. On Thursday, twenty-eight companies, including a number not previously mentioned, were represented, and after some discussion two regiments were formed.

First Regiment: Colonel, Alexander Hay; Lieut. Col., Robt. Chester; Major, Abijah Ferguson.

Second Regiment: Col., H. Hultz; Lieut. Col., John S. McCombs; Major, James Barr.

The Spang Infantry, Captain Scanlon; Union Artillery, Capt. Large; Turtle Creek Guards, Capt. Kunkle; McKeesport Union Guards, Capt. Snodgrass, and Monongahela Blues, Capt. Blackburn, were among the new companies represented.

On Friday four additional companies, making ten from Allegheny county, were accepted and ordered into camp. They were the Anderson Guards, Chartiers Valley Guards, Duncan Guards, Allegheny Rangers, Iron City Guards, Garibaldi Guards, Anderson Cadets, City Guards, B., Pittsburgh Rifles, and McKeesport Union Guards.* As there had been no provision made as yet for a reserve corps in the State, the men were entitled, for the time being, to nothing but their rations. In the mean time the Erie Regiment, three months volunteers, under Col. McLean, took up quarters in Camp Wilkins, of which Col. McLean took command. A special meeting of the Legislature, in May, authorized the formation of a Reserve Corps, and provided for its maintenance until called into the service of the United States. Troops were ordered into camp from all of the Western counties of the State, until over three thousand men thronged its confined limits. It was soon discovered that the location was poorly adapted for a camp, and on May 25th Gen. McCall was sent by the Governor, with a military commission, to examine the surrounding country and select another site. Rapid trips were made to Sewickley, on the P. F. W. and C. Railroad, and Brad-dock's Fields on the Pennsylvania Central, and on the 27th the party, composed of Gen. McCall, Capt. Sheets, U. S. A., his Aid, Quarter-masters McKelvy and Benson, Commissary Weaver, Capt.'s Duncan, Dick, Barnes and others, and Messrs. James Henderson, James Gibson and Jos. S. Lare, proceeded to Hulton, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, and examined the ground thoroughly, finally selecting it as a site for the new camp, which was named Camp Wright, in honor of Hon. John A. Wright, aid to the Governor. The camp was laid out on the 28th, on a broad field in the rear of the station buildings at Hulton, the ground sloping up to a steep eminence, about three hundred yards from the river. The parade ground was about one-fourth of a mile below, and fronted directly on the river. On the 30th, the first company—the Warren Guards, afterwards known as the "Wild Cats"—took up its quarters in Camp Wright, which was soon after filled,—by removals from Camp Wilkins and troops from other counties,—by over four thousand men.

toward the close of June, forty companies were collected, including the Erie regiment, while ten companies remained at Camp Wilkins. These companies had nearly all recruited under the call for three months men, but previous to their muster into United States service were required to enlist for three years. In some companies a great deal of dissatisfaction was occasioned by the change, but all were finally sworn into service without the necessity of disbanding. In the beginning of July, the State officers appeared in Camp and organized the companies into four regiments, of which the Tenth and Eleventh contained no Allegheny county companies :

On July 17th the Reserve regiments were supplied with arms—altered muskets—and uniforms, and on the 23d left for Washington. The entire Reserve corps was formed into a division under Gen. M'Call, and during the winter quartered at Camp Pierpont, a portion of the division serving with credit in the battle of Drainesville. In March they were placed under command of Gen. M'Dowell, in his movement on Fredericksburg, and in June were transferred to the Peninsula, in time to participate in the Seven Days' Battles. They returned under M'Clellan in time for the battles under Gen. Pope before Washington, and were again in service in Maryland, in the battles of South Mountain and Antietam. In every action they have maintained their high reputation, and have earned their veteran stamp at a terrible cost of life. Since entering the service in July, 1861, the Reserves have been reduced from fifteen thousand to about six or seven thousand men. Gov. Curtin has recently submitted a proposition to the President to bring home these, and other veteran regiments, by detachments, for the purpose of recruiting their enfeebled ranks to their former standard.

THE ERIE REGIMENT,

one of the finest bodies of men raised during the war, was enlisted in Erie and adjoining counties under the first call for 75,000 men. As the companies were enrolled in widely separated localities, some time elapsed before the regiment was organized, and it was then too late for acceptance in the State's quota of sixteen regiments. Several of the companies were encamped for some time in Erie county, but on the organization of the regiment, so great was the reluctance of the State authorities to order its disbanding, that it was finally determined to retain it for State service, and it was accordingly ordered into camp at Pittsburg. The regiment entered Camp Wilkins on May 2d, with the following organization:

Colonel: John W. M'Lean.*
Lieutenant Colonel: Benjamin Grant.
Major: M. Schlandecker.
Adjutant: Strong Vincent.
Surgeon: J. L. Stewart.
Commissary: J. V. Derrickson.
Quartermaster: S. B. Benson.

to Camp Wright, when Col. George S. Hays assumed command of Camp Wilkins. The Erie regiment was mainly uniformed, the liberality of the citizens of Erie supplying the means. The uniform was a showy and handsome one, and added greatly to the military appearance of the regiment. Prior to the transfer of the regiment to Camp Wright, great excitement was occasioned in the county and along the Monongahela valley, by a rebel raid, supposed to threaten Morgantown, and the regiment, together with one or two detached companies was ordered under arms, for the defence of the valley. The order was countermanded in a few hours, and the companies relapsed into their accustomed repose. It was transferred to Camp Wright, soon after the opening of that camp, and remained there for nearly two months, incessantly annoyed during that time by orders and countermands. During the "Morgantown scare" arms were provided for them, but not distributed, and the regiment was consequently never armed. It was never permitted to form a permanent organization, and at length Col. M'Lean applied directly to the War Department for acceptance. He was informed that his regiment would be accepted for three years, if ready to march at once. On his return, May 13th, Col. M'Lean announced the result of his mission, on dress parade, and the matter was taken into consideration by the officers. On laying the proposition before the men, however, a majority in nearly every company refused to enter service for three years. Many had enlisted for three months who could not leave their business for a longer time, but by far the largest portion were thoroughly disgusted by their treatment in camp. On July 19th the regiment was paid off and on the following day set out on its return to Erie, having spent three months in forced inaction. The regiment, as such, was never re-organized, but nearly all its members re-enlisted under the subsequent calls, Col. M'Lean organizing the 83d Pa. vols. He was subsequently killed in action, before Richmond.

The Unaccepted Companies.

It has already been stated that under the three months' call some forty or fifty companies were raised in excess of the county's quota, and that an attempt was subsequently made to organize these companies into independent reserve regiments. Under a heavy "outside pressure" Gov. Curtin finally agreed to establish a camp at Pittsburg and to order six Allegheny county companies into it. Strenuous efforts were made by all the captains to secure quarters in camp for their men, but out of over forty applicants only four were successful. Meetings of the captains were being held daily, and the selection of ten companies became a theme of angry comment among those not selected, or as they were afterwards known, the "Unaccepted Companies." Committees were appointed to wait on the Committee of Public Safety, on the Governor, and every one in fact, to whom the companies could look for assistance in their difficulties. The meetings were not always harmonious, and utterly failed in advancing the cause for which they were held, becoming at length merely gatherings for the purpose of venting contending views. The position of many of the officers was extremely trying. Some had recruited companies with their own funds, at the very outset of the excitement, and had supported the men, mainly at their own expense, for several weeks. Others who had made their appearance in the field later, had recruited companies and been ordered into camp, where they would at least be maintained without cost to the officers. This fact, especially, became a subject of bitter comment, and charges of unfairness and partiality were freely bandied by the unsuccessful. The selection of the ten companies, as may be supposed, had an extremely bad effect upon the "unaccepted" which gradually began to decline. It was discovered at length that no aid could be obtained either from the State authorities or the community, and the companies began gradually to disband. As already noted, a portion, embracing twenty-four of the companies, had been organized into two regiments, and a proposition was made to the Committee of Public Safety to maintain these organizations, if the community would furnish the necessary supplies and shelter for the men, Linden Grove being selected as a camping ground. The Committee declined to assume the responsibility, having no fund for the purpose, and the organizations at length yielded to inevitable fate, and disbanded. The last meeting of the captains, of which we have any record, was held on May 22d, and adjourned to meet at the call of another committee appointed to wait upon the Governor. Whether this committee ever reported we do not know, but as the companies were already entering the organizations of other States, it is not probable.

Had any concerted effort been made at this time by the community, there is no doubt that two or three regiments might have been maintained at comparatively trifling cost, until required under the second requisition for volunteer troops. Gov. Curtin, although he had recommended the formation of a reserve corps, refused to sanction the formation of companies for such an organization, until forced to do so by popular opinion. In New York, on the contrary, Gen. Sickles' brigade was established, although volunteers came in so slowly from the State that companies from other States were willingly accepted. Western Virginia too, which was just beginning to assert its loyalty, found the mustering of the State quota of volunteers extremely difficult, and at length established a camp on Wheeling Island, to which volunteers from all the surrounding States were invited.

In the meantime it had become apparent that the rebellion could not be put down in three months, nor by seventy-five thousand men, and the loyal community anxiously awaited a second call. Among the independent organizations and unaccepted companies, the subject of a three years enlistment had already been broached, and was generally concurred in.

The two independent regiments formed of the unaccepted companies of Allegheny county were pledged to three years' enlistment, if taken into Government service. The inducements held out by Virginia and New York, at length proved too strong for the companies so anxiously awaiting employment at Pittsburg, and men began to leave by squads, and finally by companies for Wheeling.

On May 14th the first squad of thirty men left for Camp Carlile, on Wheeling Island. It was subsequently announced that all companies would rendezvous at Wellsville, and on Virginia soil re-organize as Virginia companies, by re-electing their officers.

On the 9th, fifty volunteers from different companies, some of them disbanded, followed to Wheeling and entered Virginia companies. On the 22nd, the Spang Infantry, Captain Scanlon, and Woods Guards, Captain Hays, left for Wheeling, followed on May 2nd by the Jackson Guards, Captain Flesher. The Plummer Guards, Captain John D. Owens, (now Lieut. Col. 139th Pa., Vols.,) a company exclusively organized and uniformed by Jos. Plummer, Esq., of this city, started for Camp Carlile on June 5th, in company with the Anderson Infantry, Capt. Alexander Scott, subsequently known as the Belmont Guards. The Firemen Zouaves were organized in Camp Carlile on June 10th, by Capt. Robt. Gibson. On the 6th and 7th of June, the Friend Rifles, Capt. Brunn, a company organized and uniformed by Porter R. Friend, Esq., and the U. S. Zouave Cadets, Co. B., under Captain John P. Glass, left for New York, where they were subsequently organized in the Sickel's Excelsior Brigade—the former as Co. A., 3d regiment, and the latter as Co. A., 5th regiment. A few days after the arrival of the companies in New York, two members of the Zouaves, Lieutenants Ahl and W. W. Wattles, returned and organized Co. C. of the Cadets, which left for New York on the 21st of June. Under the auspices of Captain Brunn, a second company of Friend Rifles was also recruited in a few days, and left under command of Capt. Alex. Hay, for New York, on the 21st, in company with Co. C., of the Zouaves. Some difficulty took place on their arrival in New York, and the two companies, or the major portion of them, returned to Philadelphia, and were organized in the celebrated Geary's Regiment, since claimed as a "Philadelphia organization," exclusively.

The Pittsburgh Independent Scouts, Captain Anderson, started on the 20th of June for Reading, where they were incorporated in a cavalry regiment.

The falling off of men to join the reserve companies in Camp Wilkins, and those who entered service in New York and Virginia regiments, so reduced the unaccepted companies which still retained their organization as to render their disbanding an imperative necessity. One of the first companies disbanded—the Pennsylvania Life Guards—had already cost Captain Williams for maintenance $600.

Circumstances have since shown what a fatal blunder was committed in allowing these companies to enter the service of other States, without making any provision for their recognition by the authorities of Pennsylvania. Many hundreds of men left the county in organized companies, and there can be no doubt that nearly an equal number left singly or in small detachments and entered companies formed in other States, thus leaving no trace whatever of their military service. The neglect of the county to provide an efficient organization and to furnish support to the "Unaccepted Companies" has reduced the list of troops furnished, on which it has relied to avoid a draft, nearly three thousand men. A carefully prepared list of the companies which entered the service outside of Allegheny county regiments shows but eight or ten infantry companies—including those of Captains West, Ewing, Gibson, and Scott in the 2nd Virginia.

The Clothing Fraud.

No history of the "three months' campaign" would be complete without a record of the celebrated "clothing fraud case." It will be remembered that on the outbreak of the rebellion there was on hand in the country but a small supply of "military goods," such as heavy blue cloth for uniforms, blankets and shoes. In purchasing supplies for the State troops it became necessary, therefore, to adopt a different standard of goods, and in the haste requisite to fit out the quota of Pennsylvania immediately, the ordinary routine of advertising for proposals was abandoned, opening a wide field for corruption and rascality. The troops had been but a few weeks in camp, after receiving their uniforms and equipments from the State, until complaints became rife of the miserable quality of the clothing and shoes. Many of the suits furnished were so rotten and poorly made up that they fell to pieces in a few days, putting the wearers to the most absurd shifts to cover their nakedness. Shoes were found to have been constructed with an "insole" of shavings or wood, and so slightly put together that the outer sole would part company on the first day's wear. The blouses were made up of materials so loosely woven as to resemble in some respects bolting cloth, and decidedly better fitted for sifting grain than protecting the wearers from the inclemency of the weather. The material used for this clothing was that generally known in trade as shoddy, a stuff made up by machinery from old woolen cloth. On May 21st, the first exposition of the frauds connected with these clothing contracts appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer. A bill for $22,585 had been presented by Frowenfield & Bros., of Pittsburg, who had obtained a contract for a large number of uniforms through an individual named Charles M. Neal, an "Agent" for the State of Pennsylvania, and on whose endorsement the bill was "passed." The bill read as follows:

2,085 uniforms at $10,	-	-	-	-	$20,850
347 pairs of pantaloons at $5,	-	-	-	-	1,735

The "uniforms" spoken of included, it is supposed, a coat or "blouse" and pantaloons, though the separate charge throws some doubt on the last item. Subsequent inquiry has utterly failed to show by what authority Mr. Neal acted in this matter, as Gov. Curtin entirely repudiated any "agencies" save those legitimately appointed—Quartermaster General Hale and Commissary General Irvin. The quality of the goods for which these enormous charges were made, and the relation of Mr. Neal to the contract were afterwards fully shown by legal investigation.

We have already noticed the operations of the Executive Committee of the Committee of Public Safety, and soon after this statement was published, an investigation was commenced by the Committee. On Tuesday, May 28th, M. Swartzwelder, Esq., at a meeting of the committee offered a preamble and resolutions, alluding to the charges of fraud in general circulation, and providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the charges. The resolutions were adopted, and the following committee appointed: M. Swartzwelder, Esq., Thos. Bakewell, Esq., Hon. Wm. F. Johnston, and Wm. M. Shinn, Esq.

This committee addressed a note to the Messrs. Frowenfeld inviting their attendance at the examination, on Wednesday, May 29th, but as neither of them appeared, the committee sent a second note by Mr. Riddle, one of the Mayor's police. To this note an insolent reply was returned, that the parties accused would have nothing to say, and an intimation that the bearer of the note would be shown the door. Messrs. Frowenfeld had a few days before published a note in relation to the charges made against them, and requested a public investigation; as they now refused to appear, the Committee proceeded without them. They examined but five witnesses, on whose statements the matter was brought before the Grand Jury on Tuesday, June 4th. M. Swartzwelder, Esq. and Thos. Williams, Esq., were retained as prosecuting counsel.

The Court met on June 3d, and the Grand Jury organized, after an able charge from Judge M'Clure, in which the rascality of contractors was severely commented on, and the jury charged to regard the furnishing of improper food or rotten clothes as giving aid and comfort to the enemy. On Monday, June 25th, Mr. Marshall, counsel for the Frowenfeld's, moved for a continuance of the case until the next term of Court. Messrs. Thos. Williams, M. Swartzwelder and J. H. Miller appeared for the Commonwealth, and Hon. Chas. Shaler, Thos. M. Marshall, F. H. Collier; S. W. Black, J. M. Kirkpatrick, Jno. Mellon, and John Coyle, Esqs., for the defence. The case was argued on the same day, on the ground that Alfred Slade, J. N. Shannon and Jos. Lee, material witnesses for the defendants, were absent. The Court withheld a decision until the Monday following, when, the docket having been meantime cleared, the case was taken up, and two of the "necessary witnesses" were brought into Court. The third proved to be of no importance. Neal's bail had been forfeited, but was now renewed by his counsel, Mr. Brewster, of Philadelphia. To the intense surprise of the community, the case was here closed by a certiorari to the Supreme Court, and an allocatur from Judge Lowrie, the defendants having sworn that the President Judge was so far prejudiced against them that they could not obtain justice. Such a grave impeachment of the venerable and upright Judge of the Quarter Sessions Court as was contained in this affidavit, should never have obtained credence from the Supreme Court, and the surprise of the prosecuting attorneys may well be pardoned. A rule to show cause why the certiorari should not be rescinded was argued before the Supreme Court on July 2nd, and the case was regularly transferred to the Supreme Court, and a hearing fixed for the first Monday in September. At this time a continuance was asked by the Commonwealth, Sylvester W. Murphy, a clerk of the Frowenfeld's, and a very important witness, inasmuch as the prosecution was in a great measure based on his testimony before the Grand Jury, being absent. The case was continued til the 18th inst. On that date, Murphy being still absent, a nolle pros was entered, with the intention of entering a new bill on the re-appearance of the witness. Murphy was subsequently arrested in Philadelphia, on his return from his trip to Europe, but this extraordinary case was never tried, although the fact that the suits were not worth half the money charged was well substantiated. Their estimated cost was $7,00; actual value for wear $00.

THE SECOND REQUISITION.

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND VOLUNTEERS.

One of the most important acts of the special session of Congress called by Mr. Lincoln, was to authorize the President to accept the services of 500,000 volunteers for three years. Under this act, arrangements were made at once for re-organizing the three months' regiments then in the field. Unfortunately, the experience of the Pennsylvania troops had not been such as to induce them to favor the project. Many were utterly disgusted with the organization of their companies and regiments, scores of men holding commissions as field and line officers who were wholly unfit for the positions they occupied. Many were so dissipated that during the entire campaign their commands derived no benefit whatever from their instructions. Others were dissatisfied with the treatment they had received at the hands of the State authorities. Towards the close of their term of service, the general management of the State quota was greatly improved, but the rotten clothes, and still worse, the rotten food, supplied at the outset of the campaign, were still fresh in the memories of the outraged troops. The principal objection, however, originated no doubt in the utterly idle and unprofitable character of the campaign just closing. For nearly three months, the men had lain idly in camps or had been fruitlessly marched and countermarched until completely worn down. We have already given in detail the campaign of the four regiments in which the Allegheny companies were organized, and an ample illustration of all of these causes of complaint will be found in this brief sketch.

As we have already noted, the troops composing the Allegheny county quota reached home on the 29th of July, and 1st of August, scattered detachment detachments having arrived during the previous week. The reserve regiments had been sent to Washington a few days previous, but the city was by no means cleared of military.

On the 29th, a camp for regular cavalry was established at Linden Grove, under Colonel Emory, and several of the unaccepted companies which had maintained their organization were pressing forward.

On the arrival of the disbanded three months men, recruiting offices were at once established, and after a few days of comparative quiet, recruiting proceeded almost as briskly as in the earlier days of the war excitement, although men were already beginning to thoroughly comprehend the trials of the service and the magnitude of the task before the Government.

On the 25th of July, Gen. Geo. B. McClellan—who up till a few days previous had held a comparatively unimportant command in Western Virginia, and had been called to Washington to assume the task of reorganizing the army—passed through the city. He was received at the Allegheny Station by an immense crowd, and was escorted to the Monongahela House by the Twin City Rangers, Capt. Geo. Thompson, and Allegheny Greys, Capt. Boisel. Nearly all the Home Guard companies in the two cities were in the line of procession, which was closed by the companies composing the Fire Department. The Fort Pitt battery, divided into two sections and stationed on Cliff street and Seminary Hill, fired a Major General's salute on his arrival. At the Monongahela House he was welcomed by Judge Shannon, and replied briefly. Col. Saml. W. Black, who had returned a short time previous from Nebraska, of which territory he had been Governor, also made an eloquent address, closing the ceremonies of one of the most brilliant and enthusiastic receptions ever given by the city.

On the 23d inst. an immense mass meeting was held in City Hall, in reference to the proposed increase of the army. S. F. Von Bonnhorst, Esq., was called to the chair, and Thomas P. Bakewell and Rev. John Douglass were appointed Vice Presidents. Resolutions were adopted urging the collection of funds to aid in filling up the companies recruiting, and to provide for the families of volunteers, and the following gentlemen appointed on the Committee: Hon. T. M. Howe, H. McCullough, Esq., Dr. J. Carothers, Wm. Thaw, Esq., John Scott, Esq., and Alexander Nimick, Esq. The Committee set actively about the duties entrusted to them, and on the following week the recruiting of a regiment, to be under command of Col. Oliver H. Rippey was commenced. A regiment was already partially recruited for Col. Samuel W. Black, and Col. Rowley, of the 13th P. V., began the reorganization of that regiment, Lieuts. Foster and M'Ilwaine recruiting companies. On Saturday, August 3rd, the first three years regiment left for Washington under Col. Black. It has since been known as the

On August 21st the first detachment of Washington Infantry, A., Capt. J. Heron Foster, Col. Rowley's regiment, left for Washington, together with detachments of the Butler Infantry, Union Artillery, and Washington Infantry, B., of the same regiment.

On the 26th, the cavalry and infantry companies which had rendezvoused in Camp Wilkins, left for the East. The cavalry companies from Allegheny county were, the Union Cavalry, Captain Robt. H. Patterson; J. K. M. Cavalry, Capt. James E. Heron, the Moorhead Cavalry, Capt. L. Sahl, Jr., and the Pennsylvania Dragoons, Capt. H. P. Vierheller. The Infantry companies will be mentioned hereafter, as they were organized into regiments at Harrisburg and Washington. The National Cavalry, Capt. Boyce, from Upper St. Clair and Finlay township, left for the East on Aug. 28th. Detached companies were afterwards added to regiments at Harrisburg, rendering it a matter of extreme difficulty to follow their course. We give the organizations as far as we can obtain them:

LAMON'S BRIGADE, CAVALRY.

Moorhead Calvary,
Union " "

Capt. Leopold Sahl.
" Robt. H. Patterson.

These companies, from Washington City, were transferred to Lamon's brigade at Williamsport. Hampton's battery was subsequently added to the brigade. Men were enlisted in the county for the regular service, in cavalry and infantry companies, and as marines for the navy, or for gun-boat service. Many Germans were enlisted for "German regiments," who were afterwards mustered into regiments raised in the eastern counties, or in other States. Of those who entered service in Virginia, we have the record of but five companies; of those who entered New York service, but two companies; of those who joined Geary's regiment, of four companies. The cavalry companies organized in this county were generally mustered into service in regiments made up from all parts of the State, but numbers joined regiments of other States, as those of Sahl, now Redpath, and Patterson, now Stewart, which form part of the First Maryland Cavalry regiment. It would probably be below the mark to say, that in addition to the 558 men reported as having enlisted from the county, in outside organizations, nearly two thousand have gone of whom we have no trace. The companies sent from the counties were not in any case, save the 62d, organized into regiments before leaving, though a tacit understanding existed in some instances, as in the 61st and 102d, ("old 13th.") The companies of Capts. Ahl, Ball, Copeland and Meyers were early consolidated with Geary's regiment, and participated in its entire campaign. It lay for some months at Point of Rocks and Harpers' Ferry, during which time it drove the rebels from Bolivar Heights. During the first campaign in the Valley of Virginia, it participated, with Knapp's battery. In the second advance from Harpers' Ferry it took part in the battle of Cedar Mountain, and in the subsequent battles under General Pope. On the re-organization of the army, it took part in the brief Maryland campaign. The companies in the 1st and 2d Virginia regiments, and those in Blenker's division participated in the entire campaigns of 1861 and '62 in Western Va., skirmishing, guarding railroads, marching and countermarching, and spent the winter, partially quartered and poorly supplied, on the mountain ranges. In the spring of '62 they crossed the mountains and joined the corps under Fremont. The main body of the troops enlisted here, however, spent the winter in the Army of the Potomac, surrounding Washington. Company's A, Capt. Foster, and D, Capt. Enright, were detached from the 102d (old 13th) regiment, on picket duty, under command of Capt. Foster, and lay for some months at Great Falls, Md., guarding the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. During their occupation of "Cantonment Rowley," a paper was published regularly by the "Dispatch Mess," being a continuation of the paper published by the "old 13th" at Williamsport.

In March, the Army of the Potomac commenced its advance on Richmond, in which the 61st, 62d, 63d, 101st and 102d (old 13th) regiments participated. Several other regiments embracing Allegheny County companies took part in the campaign, from the taking of Yorktown until the siege of Richmond, the Reserve regiments joining the army just before the bloody seven days' battles. After the removal of the army from the Peninsula to Fredericksburg, the Allegheny troops were engaged in one or other of the actions during Pope's retreat to Washington. They were subsequently re-organized under M'Clellan, and participated with honor in the battles of South Mountain and Antietam. One company of Allegheny volunteers, under Capt. Thos. E. Rose, was organized as a portion of the 77th regiment, Col. Stambaugh, and embarked for Kentucky under Gen. Negley. They took part in the campaign of last Spring and Summer, were in the battle of Pittsburg Landing and at the siege of Corinth. They are now in the force operating under Gen. Buell. The Anderson cavalry, made up of representatives from all parts of the State, and one of the finest bodies organized in Pennsylvania, also participated in the Kentucky campaign as Buell's body guard, and in other special service. The names of those enlisted here for the original Troop were: Sergt. Frank B. Ward, (now Major in regiment;) Corporal Wm. T. M'Clure; Privates Wm. Strain, Robert Henderson, James C. Sproul, Henry J. Toudy, Walter F. Austin, John S. Murray, John E. Skillen. The Troop has recently been increased to a full regiment.

A full record of the casualties during this bloody campaign will not be made until the information is officially given by a publication of the army rolls. We find published the following names of commissioned officers lost in battle or by sickness; of the long list of privates and non-commissioned officers carried off by disease or the chances of battle, our space would preclude the publication, even could the information be procured.

1st Lieut. Alfred Wechsler, Young's Cavalry, died in Pittsburg, Sept. 8, 1861.

1st Lieut. Alfred Sickman, Co. G., 2d Va., killed at Cheat Mountain, Dec., 1861.

1st Lieut. E. R. Darlington, Co. A., 9th Pa. R. C., died at Georgetown, D. C., Oct. 21, 1861.

1st Lieut. W. J. Phillips, Co. L., 102d Pa., died at Washington, D. C., Dec. 11, 1861.

Capt. Leopold Sahl, Jr., Moorhead Cavalry, thigh terribly shattered at Slippery Creek, near Springfield, Hampshire co., Va., on the 4th of June, 1862, and died at Cumberland on the 17th, thirteen days after. He was returning from a scout with his company and fell into an ambuscade.

Capt. C. W. Chapman and Lieut. James M. Lysle, (Quartermaster) of 63d Regt., was killed while reconnoitering outside the picket lines near Pohick Run, Va., on the 5th of March, 1862.

Capt. Jacob Brunn, Co. E. (Friend Rifles) 3d Regt, Excelsior Brigade, killed at the battle of Williamsburg, Va., on May 5th, 1862.

Lieut. Mart. Miller, of same company, was killed in the same engagement.

Col. Oliver H. Rippey, 61st P. V., was killed at the battle of Fair Oaks or Seven Pines, May 31st, 1862.

Capt. Jos. Gerard, Co. K. 61st., Lieut. W. B. Kenney, Co. D., 102d, Capt. G. W. Gillespie, Co. B., 103d, Lieut. Scott, 61st, were also killed in the battle at Fair Oaks.

Col. Samuel W. Black, at battle of Gaines' Hill, June 28th, 1862. Body not recovered, and buried on the field.

Major John Poland, 102d P. V., and Lieut. Thomas Mooney, killed at Malvern Hill, July 1st, 1862. Lieut. Beatty, Pittsburg Rifles, 9th Reserves, was killed in the same action.

Col. Jas. H. Childs, 4th Cavalry, killed at the battle of Antietam, near Sharpsburg, Sept. 17th, 1862.

Capt. Jas. T. Shannon, Co. C., 9th Reserves, died at Washington City, on the 14th Sept., 1862, from the effects of a wound in the head, received at the second battle of Bull Run, August 21.

Recruiting Service.

Capt. J. Heron Foster and Lieut. W. B. Kenney, Sergts. Wilkinson and P. P. Baer, and A. P. Callow, of the 102d (Col. Rowley's) regiment, were detailed on recruiting service in January, 1862, opening offices on the 1st of February—Capt. Foster, on Fifth street, Pittsburg, and Lieut. Kenney, on Federal street, Allegheny. There were enlisted from Feb. 1st to April 10th, one hundred and fifty-five recruits, which were distributed amongst twenty-seven Penna. regiments. More than one-half of the recruits were obtained by Capt. Foster and Lieut. Kenney, although all the men enlisting with them did not join the 102d.

The second detachment of recruiting officers arrived in August, and are yet in the city. Capt. E. S. Wright, of the 62d, one of the number, was appointed provost marshal, and is acting in that capacity at the present date, having his office in Lyon's building, 5th street, removing thence from 67 Fourth street.

Relief Committee.

Soon after active recruiting commenced, in April, 1861, a number of prominent citizens called upon Gen. Negley and authorized him to publish the statement that the families of volunteers would be provided for in their absence, by the community. In pursuance of this pledge, meetings were held in Pittsburg and Allegheny, and under the auspices of the Finance Committee, of the Committee of Public Safety, collections commenced, and rooms were opened for the transaction of business. On the 15th of June the Committee was distributing relief to 570 families, and the number was considerably increased after that date. Besides providing for these families, the Committee, in accordance with a resolution of the banks, which subscribed $3000 to the fund, purchased 1800 percussion muskets. Many subscriptions of large sums were made by individuals and corporations, but our limits forbid a publication in detail. Sub-committees for collection were appointed in all the wards, boroughs and townships, and to these committees was entrusted the duty of hearing and determining upon applications for relief. Many of the precincts returned comparatively small sums, although their subsequent claims for relief were large. We give below the names of collectors and sums collected in twenty-nine districts. In the remaining districts the sums reported by collectors were small. The total amount collected, in cash, dry goods, groceries, etc. was $24,251 90, which was disbursed during the Summer. In cash $18,500, was distributed and in dry goods, etc. $2,200.

In the Autumn, the fund having been exhausted, the Relief Committee was organized as required by Legislature, and the county assumed the distribution of relief. The Commissioners, who had levied a two-mill tax and appointed collectors, subsequently revoked the appointments, recalled the books and borrowed the requisite funds. In order to meet pressing claims for relief, the two-mill tax not being paid into the Treasury for some time, $26,901 were paid out of the funds in the Treasury. For the year 1861 the sum assessed was $55,775. Under the Relief act sub-committees were appointed for each ward, borough and township, by whom the relief claims were examined and reported, and the relief funds paid out. The first relief rolls were presented in September, 1861. The tax assessed in 1862 was $54,927. The sum collected was exhausted in the first seven months of the year, and the last relief was paid out in August. The exact amount paid by the county is not known, as the accounts are not yet audited.

THE THIRD REQUISITION,

AND A

HISTORY OF THE DRAFT.

The third requisition, for three hundred thousand men, and the draft ordered for an equal number, may be treated as a single event, as but few volunteers were secured until after the second order was issued. In several states the orders were considered as a call for six hundred thousand men, and apportioned among the districts as a single quota. In Pennsylvania the recruiting of the quota has been so mismanaged that no definite policy can be said to have been pursued relative to it. It is quite probable that the governors were notified on the issuing of the third requisition that an order for a draft would follow, but no public or official notice to that effect was given, although rumors of a draft preceded the publication of the order several days.

On the 28th of June, a letter was addressed to the President by the Governors of the loyal States, requesting him to take measures for an immediate increase of the army. In pursuance of this request, the President, on the 1st of July, issued his third requisition, calling upon the loyal States to furnish three hundred thousand volunteers. In some of the States immediate steps were taken for recruiting the quota required, but in Pennsylvania the volunteer movements were proceeding very leisurely on the 21st, when the Governor issued his proclamation, calling for twenty-one regiments of volunteers in the State. He had in the interim secured an order for the acceptance of nine months, instead of three years volunteers, and of recruits for the old regiments for twelve months. Congress at its previous session had fixed a bounty for volunteers of one hundred dollars, one-fourth to be paid at the time of enlistment and the balance at the close. It had also sanctioned the payment of one months' pay in advance, making an enlistment bounty of thirty-eight dollars. In several States the Governors, in order to hasten enlistments, had added to this a State bounty of fifty dollars or more; but in issuing his proclamation Governor Curtin announced that no bounty would be paid by the State. The quota of Allegheny county by this proclamation was fixed at fifteen companies of nine months' men. Immediate measures were taken throughout the State to hasten recruiting, and on July 25th, in pursuance of previous notice, an immense mass meeting was held on the West Commons, in Allegheny City. At least fifteen thousand people were assembled and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed.

Four stands had been erected on different portions of the Common for the convenience of the crowd, and at one o'clock the meeting was organized, at the main stand, by the Committee of Arrangements, and the following list of officers announced:

STAND No. 1. Hon. Wm. Wilkins, President, assisted by a great number of Vice Presidents; Robt. Finney, J. R. Hunter, S. Harper, E. A. Montooth, Wm. B. Negley, W. C. Moreland, Thos. M. Bayne, and H. E. Davis, Secretaries.

STAND No. 2. Gen. Wm. Robinson, jr., President, assisted by Simon Drum, John Morrison, C. T. Ihmsen, J. M'D. Crossan, and Thos. M'Kee, Vice Presidents.

STAND No. 3. Thomas Bakewell, Esq., President, assisted by B. C. Sawyer, G. L. B. Fetterman, John Birmingham, J. Sampson, and B. A. Mevay, Vice Presidents.

German Stand, G. G. Backofen, President, assisted by N. Voeghtly, Francis Felix, Major D. Fickeisen, Dr. A. H. Gross and A. Holstein, Vice Presidents.

Proceedings opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Howard. Hon. P. C. Shannon then introduced Judge Wilkins who read a stirring address. Gov. Curtin, who was present on the stand, followed in an able but brief speech, at the close of which a series of resolutions were read and adopted.

The resolutions set forth the duty of loyal men to rise to the support of the Union in its hour of peril; the determination of Pennsylvania never to retire from the contest until the rebellion was crushed; calling on the authorities for an energetic employment of every means in their power to re-establish the authority of the Constitution; that the gratitude of the people of the State was due to Gov. Curtin for his labors in support of the Government; that a subscription be raised for a $50 bounty to volunteers; and that citizens of the county be earnestly requested to call meetings for the encouragement of recruiting. The tenth resolution provided that to raise the necessary funds for paying the bounty and assisting in preparing troops for the field, the following Committee should be appointed to collect and disburse :

Messrs. THOMAS M. HOWE, THOS. BAKEWELL, JAMES PARK, Jr., GEO. W. CASS, ISAAC JONES, B. F. JONES, WM. K. NIMICK, JOHN HARPER, THOS. S. BLAIR, P. C. SHANNON, JOHN H. SHOENBERGER and JAMES B. MURRAY.

The adoption of the resolutions was followed by a speech from Hon. W. F. Johnston, the audience having already divided to the several stands. Hon. Wilson M'Candless, Judge of the U. S. Court, Prof. S. J. Wilson, of the Western Theological Seminary, Rev. James Prestly, Hon. John Covode, T. J. Bigham, John H. Hampton, Wm. C. Moreland, Capt. John A. Danks, of the 63d regiment, Hon. Robt. M'Knight, J. R. Hunter and others also addressed the meeting.

The impulse given to recruiting by this meeting was quite marked. Companies for nine months and for the war were immediately set on foot in both cities. On the 28th an order was issued revoking the permission given Governor Curtin to recruit nine months regiments, on the ground that the time of service was too short to be effective, and that, as a similar privilege could not be extended to all the states, the discrimination would justly provoke complaint. The mustering officer was instructed to continue mustering in nine months' men until August 10th, and on that date the time was extended, to permit regiments already formed to recruit to the regular standard, until the 23d inst. In the interval thus allowed a sufficient number of companies were organized in Allegheny county to fill its quota under the first call. At the same time the recruiting of three years' men was rapidly progressing. In Allegheny city an impetus was given to the nine months' enlistments by the organization of the "Clark Infantry," a company under Rev. J. B. Clark, a clergyman of the 2nd United Presbyterian Church, in that city. Scores of men whose dread of the irreligious surroundings of the soldier had deterred them from enlisting, rushed to his standard, and his company was soon filled to overflowing. A second, third and fourth—one under command of the Mayor of the city, Simon Drum, Esq.—were organized in a few days, and on the date fixed by the Government a regiment was organized, of which Captain Clark was elected Colonel. Three years companies were also being organized, and under the auspices of William M. Semple, of Allegheny, the Semple Infantry was organized by William H. Moody, a similar "rush" resulting in the formation of four companies. We may here remark that no man in the community has displayed a more genuine spirit of liberality than Mr. Semple, who in donations to the companies bearing his name and in other forms has expended nearly $3000 towards the formation and equipment of the 139th regiment. Edward J. Allen, well known as the author of the "Oregon Trail," which appeared in the Daily Dispatch some years ago, also set about the organization of an Engineer regiment, which was subsequently, we believe, mustered into service as Infantry. The organization of these regiments will be given below :

The 123d regiment left for Harrisburg on the 20th day of August, and was followed on the succeeding day by the companies subsequently organized into the 136th. The 139th left September 1st, and some days after, the 155th followed it. During this period two heavy artillery companies, the Pittsburgh Artillery, Capt. Young, and Staunton Artillery, Capt. George W. Henderson, were recruited and left for Fort Delaware, Delaware river. A battalion for the Anderson troop was recruited and forwarded to Carlisle, in this month, by Sergeant, now Major Frank B. Ward. Detachments were also recruited for Hampton's, Knap's, Daum's and other battalions in the field. These regiments had been but a few days in the field when the rebel raid into Maryland took place, threatening the safety of the Pennsylvania border. Fifty thousand militia were instantly called out by the Governor, and in less than a week a far larger number had assembled at Harrisburg. An immense war meeting was held at the Court House on September 6th, and measures were adopted for a rapid organization of the militia. Companies were hastily organized in Allegheny county, and on September 16th, 1066 men, principally from Allegheny, left for Harrisburg. A regiment had been organized, of which Robert Galway was Colonel, James M. Cooper, Lieutenant Colonel, and A. H. Gross, Major. Companies continued to rush Eastward during the ensuing week, from all the Western counties, until nearly two regiments had left Allegheny county alone. Fortunately their services were not required, and after a rapid march toward the State Line and return to Harrisburg, the companies were dismissed. They will assist, however, in maintaining an organization.

Permission having been given by the War Department to recruit a cavalry regiment, and a regiment of Infantry in Allegheny county, the "Corcoran Regiment" was set on foot, as announced, for service under General Corcoran. It proved unsuccessful, however, and the men recruited were subsequently added to other organizations, a company under Capt. Powers joining the 101st regiment, Colonel Morris. The Stanton Cavalry, Col. Schoonmaker, is still at Camp Howe, (formed for troops under the Third Requisition, at Linden Grove.) The men have been equipped, and will soon be ready to march. A regiment under Colonel Stockton is also filling rapidly.

On the 1st of August, the long anticipated order for a draft was published. The State authorities had already called upon the County Commissioners for a statement of the number of militia in the county subject to draft, but on this subject no accurate record had been kept, and in reply, the commissioners forwarded a statement compiled from the report of the County Assessors, giving the number of persons liable to military duty in the county as 12,359. Subsequently the commissioners determined to order a regular enrolment of the County, which was accordingly made. There was much discussion as to the regulations which should govern the enrolment, but we believe the state laws were followed by the assessors, who returned the number of militia liable to duty.

At its session of 1861-62, Congress passed an act authorizing the President to order a draft of the militia of the States for nine months service, fixing the limit of age between 18 and 21 years, and empowering the President, in case any State should not have the proper laws for putting the act in force, to issue regulations for a draft in such States. Under the State law, the exempts were persons in the army and navy, ministers, professors and school directors, judges, persons discharged from the U. S. service, and officers honorably discharged from militia service. The President of the United States is also exempt, and all Government officers, Custom House and Post Office officers, stage drivers and ferrymen on post routes; all Inspectors of Customs; all pilots; all sailors actually employed in the service of any citizen or merchant of the United States; with such others as are exempt by disability or chronic diseases. To secure accuracy in the enrolment, an act was passed imposing heavy penalties on all tavern or boarding house keepers or others refusing information to the Assessor, and for giving false information respecting themselves or the parties liable to enrolment.

On the 9th of August the President issued his instructions for the draft, as directed by act of Congress. These instructions provided for places of rendezvous for drafted men, and the enrolment of ALL able-bodied citizens between the ages of eighteen and forty-five. A commissioner was to be appointed for each county, and his duties prescribed as follows:

“The enrolling officers shall immediately, upon the filing of the enrolment lists, notify said Commissioners that said lists have been so filed, and the Commissioners shall thereupon give notice by handbills posted in each township of his county, of the time and place at which claims of exemption will be received and determined by him, and shall fix the time to be specified in the order aforesaid, within ten days of the filling of the enrolment from which the draft shall be made, and all persons claiming to be exempt from military duty, shall, before the said days fixed for the draft, make proof of such exemption before said Commissioner, and if found sufficient, his name shall be stricken from the list by a red line drawn through it, leaving it still legible. The Commissioner shall, in like manner strike from the list the names of all persons now in the military service of the United States—all telegraph operators and contractors actually engaged on the 5th day of August, 1862, engineers of locomotives on railroads, the Vice President of the United States, the officers, judicial and executive, of the Government of the United States, the members of the Houses of Congress and their respective officers. All custom house officers and their clerks; all Postofficers and stage drivers who are employed in the care and conveyance of the mails of the post offices of the United States; all ferrymen who are employed at any ferry on the post roads; all pilots; all mariners actually employed in the sea service of any citizens or merchants within the United States; all engineers and pilots of registered or licensed steamboats and steamships, and all persons exempt by the laws of the respective States, from military duty, on sufficient evidence, or his personal knowledge that said persons belong to any of the aforesaid classes, whether the exemption is claimed by them or not. Exemption will not be made for disability unless it be of such prominent character as to render the person unfit for service for a period of more than thirty days, to be certified by a surgeon appointed by the Governor in each county for that purpose."

Under these instructions a second enrolment of the County was made. James L. Graham, Esq., was appointed Draft Commissioner, but declined the position, and at his suggestion, the appointment was transferred to Wm. B. Negley, Esq. The Deputy Marshals appointed were the Assessors of the several precincts, who were supposed to be eminently qualified for the duty—a mistake, as it afterward proved that one man could not perform thoroughly a duty so onerous—and the enrolment proceeded rapidly. On the 20th it was announced that the total enrolment of the county was 37,099, divided as follows:

Pittsburg 11,187 | Allegheny 5,709 | Boroughs 6,870 | Townships 13,333.

The apportionment was thus announced:

	Pittsburg.	Allegheny.	Boroughs.	Townships.
Quota,	3,277	1,609	1,941	3,766
Credit,	2,016	1,354	1,752	3,236
Deficiency,	1,261	255	189	530

The total number of men reported as having enlisted in Pennsylvania organizations was 8,392, to be taken from a quota of 10,593 leaving a deficiency of 2,201. Five hundred and fifty-eight were reported as having enlisted in regiments not belonging to the State, and were therefore not credited on the quota.

The appointment of a Draft Commissioner was followed by the appointment of a Surgeon, Dr. A. C. Murdoch, to examine applicants for exemption on the ground of physical inability to bear arms. A room was assigned him in the Court House, and for several weeks his labors were most arduous. Private examinations were made in Dr. Murdoch's office, both before and after his office hours at the Court House, frequently protracting his labors far into the night. For the examinations in his private office fees were charged, giving rise to a great deal of dissatisfaction in the community, and suspicions of unfair dealing. None of the rumors were substantiated by direct charges or a legal investigation.

The labor of preparing for the draft, making the necessary calculations, etc., was so heavy that the clerks in the Draft Commissioner's office were kept busy night and day. The date fixed for drafting was twice postponed, once to Sept. 1st, and again to Thursday, Oct. 16th, the Governor, on the last occasion, announcing that the delay was occasioned by the difficulty of properly deciding the claims for exemption presented by Philadelphia and other cities. In Allegheny county great dissatisfaction was expressed in many districts at the defective returns of the Deputy Marshals, and permission was given to amend these returns up to Sept. 1st. After that date, the Commissioner refused to receive any additional returns, save those of "new enlistments"—i. e. those enlisted subsequent to the returns of the Marshals.

These additions required the certificate of the mustering officer that the parties were actually mustered into service.

A meeting held in the Third Ward subsequent to the date fixed by the Commissioner resulted in a return from the ward, by "block committees," of some three hundred names, in addition to those reported by the Deputies. These names the Commissioner declined receiving and the matter was referred to the Governor, who placed the decision entirely at the discretion of the Commissioner. Mr. Negley accordingly revised the returns, and accepted 132 names. In other wards, a large number of enlistments were found to have escaped the Deputy Marshals, but it did not become necessary to present them. The deficiency reported from the first returns of the Marshals was gradually reduced by the amended returns, until, on Monday, October 13th, the announcement was made that no draft would be required in Allegheny county.

The Pittsburg Subsistence Committee.

This noble organization owed its existence to the wants of soldiers coming into and passing through our city. When the lamented Col. Samuel W. Black was raising his regiment, several companies from the surrounding counties arrived here, and were quartered at various houses of entertainment. It was expensive, and as there was no camp opened in the vicinity, and no public provision made for subsisting the men, it was necessary that some one should become responsible for their expenses.

James Park, jr., coming to the knowledge of this state of affairs, with the liberality that has distinguished him, at once gave directions, that until further orders he "would become responsible." Mr. Park, in connection with Hon. Thomas M. Howe, then proceeded to raise a fund and to devise means to feed volunteers substantially and at a less cost than could be done at the hotels.

A meeting was held at City Hall and the following Committee appointed:—Hon. Thomas M. Howe, Chairman, B. F. Jones, Esq., George Weyman, Esq., Wm. Thaw, Esq., and John Scott, Esq.

The duty of the Committee was to attend to the subsisting of such companies as were forming, until they were regularly mustered into the U. S. service. After subsisting Col. Black's Regiment for some ten days, until they left for Washington City, the attention of the Committee was directed to the wants of the regiments and companies passing through our city. On the 28th of July, 1861, the first Regiment, the 24th Ohio, was fed by the Committee. This Regiment was ordered to report at Washington city, and passed through our city Saturday evening, July 27th. They had gone but a few miles when they were ordered back to Western Virginia. They were quartered Saturday night at City Hall, and on Sunday morning a breakfast was given to them by the Committee. As no rooms had been as yet fitted up, the meal was given to them standing in the street. The following week, the Committee had the "Old Leech Warehouse," corner of Penn and Wayne streets, fixed with tables, &c., for accommodating a regiment at one time. On Sunday morning, August 3d, 1861, the first regiment, the 20th Indiana, Col. Brown, was furnished with a substantial meal of bread and butter, ham and coffee. A number of young ladies and gentlemen was appointed by the committee to take charge of this part of the work—the giving of a meal to regiments and companies on their way to the seat of war, and on the 17th of August, 1861, the Committee resigned into the hands of these ladies and gentlemen the whole management of its operations. The following ladies and gentlemen were appointed and are still acting in that capacity, under the name of the Pittsburg Subsistence Committee.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Wm. P. Weyman, Joseph Albree, Henry M. Atwood.

ACTIVE MEMBERS.

R. C. Albree, A. H. Lane, B. F. Vandevort, B. F. Weyman, Frank Semple, George Little, O. Lemon, H. Robinson, W. B. Edwards, J. McQ. Woods, E. Schwartz, W. Young, Edward H. Nevin, Chas. Caldwell, Thos. Carnagie, Geo. W. McClure.

Misses A. Thaw, M. Morehead, E. P. Albree, J. B. Haynes, H. K. Weyman, K. Dennison, S. Townsend, E. Kennedy, A. Kennedy, M. Bryan, L. Thaw, E. P. Lane, Mrs. M. Albree, H. Moorhead, M. Bruchlocker, R. Howard, M. Howard, M. Robinson, M. Park, E. Atwood, S. Lemon, Mary Maitland, S. Breed.

Early in October, the City Councils granted the use of City Hall to the Committee, and on the 16th of October, the first regiment was fed in City Hall. The Committee has, since its organization, furnished meals to over 76,000 soldiers. Of this number, 5768 were sick and wounded. These were provided with medical attendance, and all comforts their situation demanded.

The Committee, after receiving several appeals for supplies from some of the Hospitals of our Army, on the 15th of January, 1862, opened depots for receiving donations of Hospital Supplies. They have forwarded, up to Oct. 1st, 320 large cases of supplies to the different Hospitals East and West, containing 54,946 articles. Amongst the articles there were 4800 shirts, 2140 drawers, 2025 pillows, 1450 cans fruit, and other articles in proportion. The ladies of the Committee under the management of Miss A. Thaw, meet every Wednesday afternoon, at City Hall, where they cut out work and give it to any persons willing to make it up. In this way over 2,000 shirts and pairs of drawers have been made during the past six months. The Committee depends altogether on voluntary contributions for its support.

Amount of contributions of cash for Feeding Fund,	$5,500
“ “ Provisions,	500

Amount of contributions of cash and articles for Hospitals,	$6,000
	$31,250

We can only say, in conclusion, that Committee has performed its work well and thoroughly, yet without public demonstration. They have earned the warm gratitude of thousands of way-worn soldiers, who, without their kind assistance, would have gone on their journey uncheered and unrefreshed. Verily, they have earned their reward.

The number of pages of religious Books and papers distributed at the rooms of the Committee amongst soldiers passing through our city was 246,000.

THE BOUNTY FUND SUBSCRIPTION.

We publish below a classified list of the sums subscribed to the fund for paying a bounty of fifty dollars to volunteers from Allegheny county. The list includes all subscriptions above $50, our space forbidding the publication of smaller sums. In some cases the amounts returned from wards include sums above fifty, and where these could be obtained they have been included in the classified list.

Subscription to Loans.

For still further proof of the loyalty of Allegheny county to the Union, we give the amounts subscribed by her citizens to the different loans, National and State:

To the 7-30 Government loan, three hundred and twenty-seven subscriptions were made, amounting in the aggregate to $520,404 89, from Sept. 16th to Dec. 2d, 1861, at which time the books were closed.

To the Six per cent. Government loan $532,432 was subscribed from May 21st to Oct. 14, 1862. We could not obtain the number of the subscribers, a convenient record not being obtainable.

These subscriptions were made at the office of Joshua Hanna, Esq., of Hanna, Hart & Co., Bankers, corner of Third and Wood streets. At least $500,000 additional was taken in the east by parties resident in the county.

Of the $3,000,000 State loan, authorized by an act of the Legislature, approved May 15, 1862, the following amounts were taken by Banks of this city:

Bank of Pittsburg, $90,000; Exchange Bank, $90,000; Merchants & Manufacturers' Bank, $50,000; Citizens Bank, $50,000; Iron City Bank, $40,000; Allegheny Bank, $40,000; Mechanics Bank, $30,000. Total, $390,000.

The aggregate amount taken of the loans by citizens and corporations of Allegheny county, (including the half million taken in the east,) is $1,942,283 89.

Subscriptions to the six per cent. loan are still being made, our report of the amount taken, as given above, being up to the 14th of October last.

Uniforming the Three Months Men.

No provision having been made, either in this city or in Harrisburg, by the authorities, in 1861, for uniforming the three months volunteers, the men demurred from going until they were suitably clothed. B. F. Jones, Esq., assumed the task of equipping one company, and depositing his check for three thousand dollars, ordered the clothing to be furnished, and set about collecting the amount to reimburse himself. With what success his labors were crowned will be shown below. Over thirteen thousand dollars were collected in a day or two, and with this ten companies were uniformed.

Beside these, several other companies were supplied with uniforms, by private subscription, of which, however, we can find no record.

This sum was subscribed with the understanding that it should be refunded by the State, and the larger part of the donors have agreed, in case it should be thus returned, that it should be appropriated for the relief of distressed families of volunteers. As yet, the State has done nothing either in this case, or in that of Messrs. Morganstern & Bro. who furnished one entire company, for which they have never received one cent. The members of the Legislature for this county should see that this just claim against the Commonwealth be not allowed to slumber during the approaching session. The amount subscribed for the clothing will undoubtedly inure to the benefit of some one of our War charities.

In some cases uniforms for commissioned officers were furnished out of this fund, a fact that should be stated in justice to the contractors, as otherwise the disparity between the prices charged per suit would attract attention.

IN CONCLUSION.

Any attempt to condense the record of the last eighteen months—a period so full of important events—into the brief limits of a pamphlet, must necessarily be imperfect. The labor of collecting the facts presented in the foregoing pages would not be credited by any one not familiar with the confused state of affairs which marked the periods of recruiting following each call for troops. There exists in Allegheny county no official or reliable record of the troops which have left it, and the columns of the daily newspapers—accessible to but few and necessarily inaccurate—furnish the only data in relation to the regiments of gallant men now in service. The errors and omissions in our record must be attributed to this fact.

At the conclusion of the Draft Commissioner's labors it was shown that twelve thousand six hundred and ninety men were in Pennsylvania service from Allegheny county, and we have no doubt that the members in service in organizations not belonging to the State, will increase this number to fifteen thousand men. The Committee has paid $50 bounty to 1664 men, and $10 bounty, with county bond for $50, to 2326 men. Total 3990.

The liberality of the people of Allegheny county has been displayed, since the outbreak of the rebellion, by contributions of money and other necessary articles for the outfit of troops, care of sick and wounded soldiers, supplying traveling regiments, supporting families of absent men, and contributing to the support of the government by loans of money. Our record shows the collection of the following amounts:

Of 7:30 and 6 per cent. loans taken in the county	$1,942,283,89
For volunteer's bounty fund, under Executive Committee	129,225,05
Voluntary Subscriptions to Relief Fund	24,251,90
Subsistence Committee in food and Hospital supplies	27,250,00
Subscription to private fund for uniforms	13,681,50
Total	2,136,692,34

This sum, it will be remembered, does not include the sums given by individuals to companies, nor the hundreds of private benefactions of every description, which probably have not been less than one hundred thousand.

In closing our sketch of the events transpiring in and around our city, in relation to the rebellion, we deem it but a fitting tribute to those worthy gentlemen, who have served their country and the cause so efficiently, to say that by the active and unremitting spirit of comparatively a few of our citizens, was the abundant patriotism of Allegheny County given shape and direction. To Hon. Thomas M. Howe, James Parke, Jr., John Harper, Hon. Wm. Wilkins, Thomas Bakewell, Reuben Miller, Jr., Isaac Jones, James M'Auley, F. R. Brunot, Wm. F. Johnston, Geo. W. Cass, W. M. Shinn, James A. Hutchinason, and some others equally deserving, do we owe the origin, and the successful development, of the greater part of the plans which have resulted in placing in the field nearly 14,000 soldiers from Allegheny County, and for placing their families, at least, beyond the reach of want.

And without desiring to seem invidious, we may say that no two soldiers in the field have rendered their country greater service than Hon. T. M. Howe and James Parke, Jr., have done in the business departments of war matters at home. Possessed of business ability in an unsurpassable degree, above suspicion for sinister motives in the way of seeking or controlling business patronage, Mr. Howe has at all times been found ready and willing to sacrifice every domestic comfort, every private consideration, for the public good. At present he is the A. A. A. General for Western Pennsylvania, a position which could certainly confer no honor upon the worthy ex-Representative of this great manufacturing district, and which he was only induced to accept at the earnest solicitation of the Executive. His services have indeed been arduous, and that they have been productive of good fruit, the honorable exemption of Allegheny County from the operations of the draft is a living proof.

Of Mr. Parke's services, little less can be said. As in the case of Mr. Howe, his purse strings were always open, and however distasteful it may be to these really unobtrusive, yet public spirited gentlemen, to be thus brought to notice, we would deem ourselves derelict in our duty as faithful chroniclers, were we to pass them over.

Some ill-feeling has been created in the community by the number of persons exempt under the "disability" clause of the law. The proper course, it is now conceded, is to put ALL names in the wheel—drafting a sufficient number to cover the loss by examination—and permit all who can to make good their claims to exemption. But this was not the law, and of course the preliminary examinations ordered, had to be made. That a large proportion of volunteer recruits become inmates of military hospitals, before leaving their camps of instruction, is well known, and a worse state of affairs was to be expected among the drafted men. It should be remembered that among the volunteer force much the larger portion have been from the working classes, men who by daily manual toil generally escape functional disorders—while the drafted troops will include a considerable number of mercantile and professional men—a class subject to such disorders. It was desirable to avoid, as far as possible, the drafting of men whose liability to constitutional or functional disorders would render them unfit for service on the first exposure, and in view of these facts the Department ordered the preliminary examination. A duty so delicate as the decision on claims of physical disability, necessarily involved a liability to occasional error, and the only alternative was to decide as carefully, yet as leniently, as justice would permit. Some may have been exempted in this county who were less unfitted than others who entered no claim, but they were unquestionably forced to present the strongest proofs of their allegations. This the law requires—beyond it, the Surgeon could not go, whatever professional jealousy may have insinuated to the contrary. Those who have joined in the murmurings against Dr. Murdoch, the Examining Surgeon for this county, should bear these facts in mind, and as a simple act of justice learn the proofs on which each case was decided, before prejudging its unfairness.

Of the Sanitary Commissions of Allegheny County we had intended to speak at length, but were compelled to forego so doing, having failed to obtain any definite data. Our citizens sent commissions at various times to Eastern Virginia, (on the Peninsula) and also to the South-West, to ascertain the condition and wants of our soldiers, and fully prepared to render all aid necessary to their comfort, whether wounded, sick, or in want of clothing or the necessaries of life. Steamboats were sent to Tennessee, shortly subsequent to the battle of Shiloh, with physicians and nurses and an abundance of hospital stores, returning in due time, after having rendered very efficient aid in properly providing for invalid soldiers, transporting some 400 from the immediate scene of that sanguinary struggle. Of this expedition F. R. Brunot, Esq., had the superintendence, and most faithfully and satisfactorily discharged his trust.

ADDENDA.

On page 28th, in speaking of the National Cavalry, Capt. Boyce, we should have added that the company was attached to the 1st Penna. Cavalry, Col. Bayard, and participated in some brilliant dashes in the vicinity of Fredericksburg and on the Peninsula. Capt. Boyce resigned on account of ill-health, and 1st Lieut. Williams succeeded to the command.

Another company of Cavalry, under command of Capt. Ormsby Robinson, composed exclusively of Allegheny county men, is attached to one of the Pennsylvania regiments, and saw active service on the Peninsula, under Col. Averill. The cavalry company of Capt. Faith is in the 5th Regiment, Col. David Campbell, not in the 4th, lately commanded by Col. J. H. Childs. Capt. Patrick Kane also recruited a cavalry company, which he took east and there joined a regiment in an Irish brigade. Capt. Hays raised a company, which was attached to Col. Emory's 6th (regular) cavalry.

We have omitted to speak of Thompson's battery, composed of Allegheny county men, and recruited under the auspices of Gen. W. H. Lamon, authorized to raise a brigade, in which, however, he did not succeed, the troops temporarily under his control, being assigned to different corps.

Five steamboats were fitted out at this port, as rams, during the present year, viz: Mingo, Capt. Bausman; Lioness, Capt. Shroades; Samson, Capt. Porter; D. Fulton, Capt. Daltzell; T. D. Horner, Capt. Cadman. These boats took away 110 men as crews.

NOTE.—We have been requested by Dr. A. C. Murdoch, Examining Surgeon for Allegheny Co., to state that the name of Alexander Addison Miller, of Pitt Township, which appears among the names of those exempted upon a disability certificate, appears in that light, upon the record of Commissioner Negley, through a mistake, Mr. Miller having never applied for exemption, through any cause whatever.
